Research Computing Governance Committee, RCGC

The Research Computing Governance Committee (RCGC) is a cross-departmental group of researchers and IT professionals at the University of Arizona with oversight of central research computing resources.

The charge to the committee is to design and implement the policies and procedures; the oversight of the operations; and promotion and recommendations for the centrally funded and administered research computing resources. The policies and procedures will be monitored and updated by this steering committee and related task forces created by this committee. The resources will be administered, maintained, and supported by UITS Research Computing, Systems, and Operations.

For more information on the RCGC and its subcommittees please refer to the web site (http://rcgc.arizona.edu/).
